

And here's the key for AAI members. Most small-cap stocks don't meet our stringent criteria. We only zero in on the promising companies we call "shadow stocks." These are small-company stocks with underlying values that are overlooked by institutions and not covered by many analysts. True to our mission, this is where our members find consistent overperformance ... with less risk.

We do all the work to keep you advised of the best
"shadow stocks" for maximum profit

You won't hear or read about the best shadow stocks from any broker or in any of the national media outlets ... at least not until it's too late, and the biggest profits have already been reaped by our members.

You see, AAI's research staff continuously scours the small-cap market. We identify the very best shadow stock companies and provide you, our members, with unbiased direction and assistance to help you make the best investment decisions for YOUR portfolio.

Naturally, while we're digging in places others rarely look, we also uncover lots of vital news, trends and information that you won't learn anywhere else ... things that can affect your investment strategy. So we regularly communicate all our findings and investing news to you in several ways:

- Weekly Email Newsletter – Every week, you will receive a concise, information-packed newsletter sent directly to your inbox. This exclusive email keeps you up to date on the latest developments in the investing world and updates you on the performance and holdings of the AAI Model Portfolios.
- AAI Journal – 12 times a year, you will be mailed the highly acclaimed AAI Journal. This members-only publication provides insight into all the investing topics discussed in this letter; plus, we go into great detail covering asset allocation, wealth management, taxation, retirement planning and much more.
